

Your Next  Great Read

Death Valley: A Novel

By Melissa Broder

"A hike becomes a metaphysical journey straight into the center of grief, featuring literature's most memorable cactus. Broder delivers us directly to the site of the wound and somehow makes us want to linger. Beautiful, exciting, and profound."

—Kristen Iskandrian, Thank You Books, Birmingham, AL

Your Next  Great Read

Land of Milk and Honey: A Novel

By C Pam Zhang

"Zhang's gorgeous prose sets a stark contrast between a world destroyed and a seemingly pristine utopia. While darkness pervades this literary thrill ride, thoughtful questions about humanity save the reader from total madness."

—Page Berger, Barrett Bookstore, Darien, CT

Your Next  Great Read

North Woods: A Novel

By Daniel Mason

"North Woods is a novel about a house, its inhabitants, and the land over four centuries set in the hills of western Massachusetts. A gorgeous, layered tapestry in which the house and the woods play into the lives of those who live there."

—Fran Keilty, Hickory Stick Bookshop, Washington Depot, CT

Your Next  Great Read

The MANIAC

By Benjamín Labatut

"One of the most fascinating books of the year. Labatut delivers a terrifying, dispassionate, utterly compulsive amalgam of fact and fiction, raising profound moral questions on unchecked scientific advancement and the dawn of AI."

—Alex Brubaker, Midtown Scholar Bookstore, Harrisburg, PA

Your Next  Great Read

Starling House

By Alix E. Harrow

"Starling House has all the excellent, wry writing of A Spindle Splintered and A Mirror Mended. Still, it's not a fairy tale retelling – just a deeply unsettling story with a house that might conceal the very gates of hell. Leave the lights on!"

–Christy Peterson, Vintage Books, Vancouver, WA

Your Next  Great Read

Family Meal: A Novel

By Bryan Washington

"Family Meal is a heartbreaking story of love, loss, and grief. Cam returns to Houston after the love of his life, Kai, dies. He and his estranged best friend, TJ, try to work through their grief and past hurts. A painful, gorgeous read."

–Kristen Beverly, Half Price Books, Dallas, TX

Your Next  Great Read

The Fragile Threads of Power

By V. E. Schwab

"Like all of Schwab's books, this will draw you in and dazzle you with her worldbuilding and characters, and keep you on the edge of your seat. A spectacular addition to the world of the Shades of Magic series!"

–Melissa Fox, Watermark Books & Café, Wichita, KS

Your Next  Great Read

Wellness: A Novel

By Nathan Hill

"Wellness will capture your heart from the very beginning. Heartbreaking, funny, thoughtful, endearing – readers will be entranced by Jack and Elizabeth's story as they struggle for the elusive life of family, truth, and true love."

–Betsy Von Kerens, The Bookworm of Omaha, Omaha, NE

Your Next  Great Read

Bright Young Women: A Novel

By Jessica Knoll

"We all know the names of serial killers, but not the victims. Jessica Knoll tells their stories with compassion and respect. You'll be shocked by the multiple miscarriages of justice that cut short the lives of so many bright young women."

—Susan Kehoe, Browseabout Books, Rehoboth Beach, DE

Your Next  Great Read

Cleat Cute: A Novel

By Meryl Wilsner

"Meryl Wilsner is a must-read author! Grace and Phoebe's sexy sapphic love story centers around their training as members of the US Women's National soccer team. Spicy and sweet, you'll fall in love so fast and be sad when the book is over."

—Andrea Richardson, Fountain Bookstore, Richmond, VA

Your Next  Great Read

Godkiller: A Novel

By Hannah Kaner

"In a world scarred by warring gods and brutal battles, a godkiller sets off on a quest with an unlikely crew. This is immersive, diverse, and full of rage against the world and those who ruined it. This book doesn't relent — I want more!"

—Anna Rose Carleton, The Well-Read Moose, Coeur d'Alene, ID

Your Next  Great Read

Our Strangers: Stories

By Lydia Davis

"Lydia Davis is in a rare arena of master short story writers. She celebrates language, never using an unnecessary word. Just perfect sentences, unexpected images, and stories that make you laugh and cry and stay with you forever."

—Gayle Shanks, Changing Hands, Tempe, AZ

Your Next  Great Read

Chenneville: A Novel of Murder, Loss, and Vengeance

By Paulette Jiles

"Paulette Jiles has done it again. John Chenneville's travails through the post-Civil War US are written in a way that is thoughtful, profound, and fluid like poetry. Even if you're not familiar with Jiles, once you read it, you'll want more."

—Vicki Honeyman, Literati Bookstore, Ann Arbor, MI

Your Next  Great Read

Sword Catcher

By Cassandra Clare

"I grew up reading Cassandra Clare. Here I am as an adult, reading her adult debut, a masterwork of worldbuilding and beautiful respect for her own history woven in. Sword Catcher is the next unstoppable force in the world of adult fantasy."

—Caitlyn VanOrder, Bookmarks, Winston-Salem, NC

Your Next  Great Read

Starter Villain

By John Scalzi

"Scalzi makes the absurd feel completely normal. Charlie is a down on his luck guy who gets thrust into the world of super villains and genetically-engineered cats. Fans of the spy genre will love the subverted super villain clichés."

—Scott Patnesky, Tattered Cover Book Store, Denver, CO

Your Next  Great Read

The Hive and the Honey: Stories

By Paul Yoon

"Paul Yoon portrays 400 years of violence suffered by Korean people, dispersed by uncontrollable events with profound consequences on their lives. His concise, incisive stories bring all of these tales to life and probe universal truths."

—Bill Cusumano, Square Books, Oxford, MS

Your Next  Great Read

Bright Lights, Big Christmas: A Novel

By Mary Kay Andrews

“Nothing gets you in the holiday spirit like a festive read. Mary Kay Andrews delivers in her latest holiday story. Centered in NYC, the most spirited holiday city, this is a perfect read to enjoy in front of a Christmas tree and a cozy fire.”

—Angela Sides, Monkey and Dog Books, Fort Worth, TX

Your Next  Great Read

Wildfire: A Novel

By Hannah Grace

“A fantastic follow-up to Icebreaker. A one-night stand with emotions left on the table leave Russ and Aurora thinking of each other. When the two end up as camp counselors, sparks fly. If you love a good summer romance, this is it.”

—Kyle Churman, Werner Books, Erie, PA

Your Next  Great Read

How to Say Babylon: A Memoir

By Safiya Sinclair

“This extraordinary memoir explores self-actualization at the crossroads of womanhood and Black liberation. Sinclair’s poetic brilliance brought grace to even her most excruciating experiences. I am in awe of her compassion and transcendence.”

—Evisa Gallman, Uncle Bobbie’s Coffee & Books, Philadelphia, PA

Your Next  Great Read

The Hurricane Wars: A Novel

By Thea Guanzon

“In this lush, romantic debut, two mortal enemies are forced into an arranged marriage to save their countries from each other and forces that threaten their world. I loved the intricate world, its politics, and the steamy romance!”

—Haley Calvin, The Novel Neighbor, Webster Groves, MO

Your Next  Great Read

The Premonition: A Novel

By Banana Yoshimoto, Asa Yoneda (Transl.)

“Have you ever felt haunted by something from your childhood? A vague memory on the edge of remembrance? Yoshimoto unravels hidden grief, loneliness, and family secrets in The Premonition. Originally published in the ‘80s, this is timeless.”

—Jenny Gilroy, E. Shaver, Bookseller, Savannah, GA

Your Next  Great Read

A Holly Jolly Ever After: A Christmas Notch Novel

By Julie Murphy, Sierra Simone

“A gloriously spicy holiday romance that is hilarious and heart wrenching – celebrating holiday joy while tackling topics like religion and purity culture. Holly Jolly is a trademark balance of laughter, spice, and everything nice!”

—Jenni Marchisotto, Mysterious Galaxy Books, San Diego, CA

Your Next  Great Read

Company: Stories

By Shannon Sanders

“Members of a big, multigenerational Black family – with branches bohemian and bourgeois – live vibrantly in this debut collection of fiction. Linked together in a glittering chain of language, their stories create a treasured heirloom.”

—James Crossley, Madison Books, Seattle, WA

Your Next  Great Read

Landscapes: A Novel

By Christine Lai

“A celebration of co-creation at its best. Christine Lai chronicles the days of the end in a subdued manner. She makes sure we know that we all have something at stake in the climate crisis, and we can continue to reach towards each other in the end.”

—Tay Jones, White Whale Bookstore, Pittsburgh, PA

Your Next  Great Read

The Free People's Village: A Novel

By Sim Kern

"The Free People's Village goes so hard! Sim Kern's masterpiece burns with righteous fury. This book doesn't pull punches – instead of hopelessness, it sliced straight through frustration, fatalism, and ennui and made me want to fight back."

–Shana Hausman, All She Wrote Books, Somerville, MA

Your Next  Great Read

Don't Fear the Reaper: A Novel

By Stephen Graham Jones

"Not just a worthy sequel to My Heart is a Chainsaw, but one that, after you've read it, you can't imagine the first book without. Jones has a true gift – he can make you shudder in horror and tear up in the same sentence."

–Olivia Morris, Harvard Book Store, Cambridge, MA

Your Next  Great Read

Gilded Mountain: A Novel

By Kate Manning

"An epic tale! Sylvie Pelletier is the daughter of a mine worker in early 1900s Colorado. She glimpses at how the wealthy owners live and is changed forever. A full-bodied historical novel relatable to today's issues of wage inequality."

–Paula Frank, The Toadstool Bookshop, Nashua, NH

Your Next  Great Read

The Hero of This Book: A Novel

By Elizabeth McCracken

"Is this a memoir or a novel? Does it matter? A very well-written story about memoir writing, following a writer who, in the wake of her mother's death, travels to London. A great examination of the grieving process and what it does to art."

–Alex Einhorn, Fountain Bookstore, Richmond, VA

Your Next

Great Read

Lucy By the Sea: A Novel

By Elizabeth Strout

"I've read quite a few pandemic books in the last year, but this one stands out. Strout has produced a meditation on memory as much as a character study as Lucy, William, and their neighbors grapple with the pandemic and political divides."

—Emily Crowe, An Unlikely Story, Plainville, MA

Your Next

Great Read

A Merry Little Meet Cute: A Novel

By Julie Murphy, Sierra Simone

"What do you get when Julie Murphy and Sierra Simone co-write a rom-com? You get the story of an adult film star and a former bad-boy boybander in a Hallmark-style holiday movie. It's a sex-positive, body-positive romance full of good cheer!"

—Cathy Berner, Blue Willow Bookshop, Houston, TX

Your Next

Great Read

The Passenger

By Cormac McCarthy

"The Passenger is Cormac McCarthy's best novel. Not his best since The Road, not his best since The Border Trilogy, not his best since Blood Meridian; his best, ever. It's an astonishing work of art, and I feel grateful to be alive to read it."

—John Duvernoy, The Elliott Bay Book Company, Seattle, WA

Your Next

Great Read